The booklet presents official statistical information on the most important indicators of agriculture development of the country: agricultural production, agricultural land area, sown area, gross harvest and yield capacity of agricultural crops and perennial plantations, as well as data on livestock and poultry population and production of main animal products.

The booklet was prepared on the basis of data of exhaustive and sample state statistical surveys as well as administrative data of the State Committee on Property of the Republic of Belarus and the National Academy of Sciences of the Republic of Belarus.

The information by economic activity is provided in accordance with the national classification of the Republic of Belarus ОКРБ 005-2011 “Kinds of economic activity”.

Data on selected statistical indicators were recalculated taking into account the results of the 2019 Population Census of the Republic of Belarus.

The 2023 data for some indicators were revised as compared with previously published data. In some cases data for 2024 are preliminary and will be revised in further issues. Relative indicators are calculated on the basis of absolute numbers with smaller units of measure than those presented in the tables. In several cases insignificant discrepancies between the total and the sum of its components are explained by data rounding.

More detailed official statistical information is available in the Interactive Information and Analytical System for Dissemination of Official Statistical Information (dataportal.belstat.gov.by).
